DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Holub (U.S. Patent 4,044,843).

The Holub '843 patent discloses a spreader/grader comprising first (16) and second (18) runner having forward edge portions, a bottom edge portions, and an aft edge portions. The first and second runners are spaced in parallel relation to each other. The grader includes a blade support having a first end portion and a second end portion attached to the first and second runner, respectively. A moldboard (50) is pivotally attached to the blade support. First (55) and second (53) blades having a cutting surface are attached to the moldboard. The blades are attached to the moldboard such that the cutting surface of the first blade faces toward the forward edge portion of the runners and the cutting surface of the second blade faces toward the aft edge portion of the runners (Fig. 2). When forward motion is imparted, the moldboard undergoes pivotal movement so that the first blade is placed in operative connection with the surface (Fig. 2, solid lines), and when aft motion is imparted, the moldboard undergoes pivotal movement such that the second blade is placed in operative connection with the surface (Fig. 2, phantom lines).

Regarding claims 3 and 4: The cylinder (72) provides a first and second means for arresting pivotal motion, i.e., each end of the stroke of the cylinder (each end wall) stops pivotal movement. The first and second means arrest pivotal movement such that the blade is oriented for particular work to be performed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, 6, 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Holub (U.S. Patent 4,044,843) in view of Conley (U.S. Patent 1,373,799).

The Holub '843 patent discloses the spreader/grader, as stated in paragraph 2 above, including a rigid member (14) disposed between the runners. What the Holub '843 patent does not disclose is that the spreader/grader having a first and second shoes attached to the first and second runners, respectively. The Conley '799 patent teaches that it is known in the art to provide runners (1) with ground-engaging shoes (2) rigidly attached to the bottom edge of the runner. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the spreader/grader of the Holub '843 patent with the shoes as taught by the Conley '799 patent, in order to provide an improved wear surface for the spreader/grader.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
